Our essence
CARING

Our solutions unlock opportunities.

We balance profitable opportunities and potential risks to design bespoke insurance solutions to carry you forward.

Our actions
RELIABLE

Here are some facts about who we are – to help you get to know more about the company behind your HDI Global partner.

Global Locations

With international branches, subsidiaries and affiliates as well as network partners in more than 200 countries and territories, we are there to help you in person all around the world.

Strong Team Player

As part of the Talanx insurance group, HDI Global SE has been a leading insurer for decades. We offer a broad, demand-focussed range of insurance solutions and supporting services.

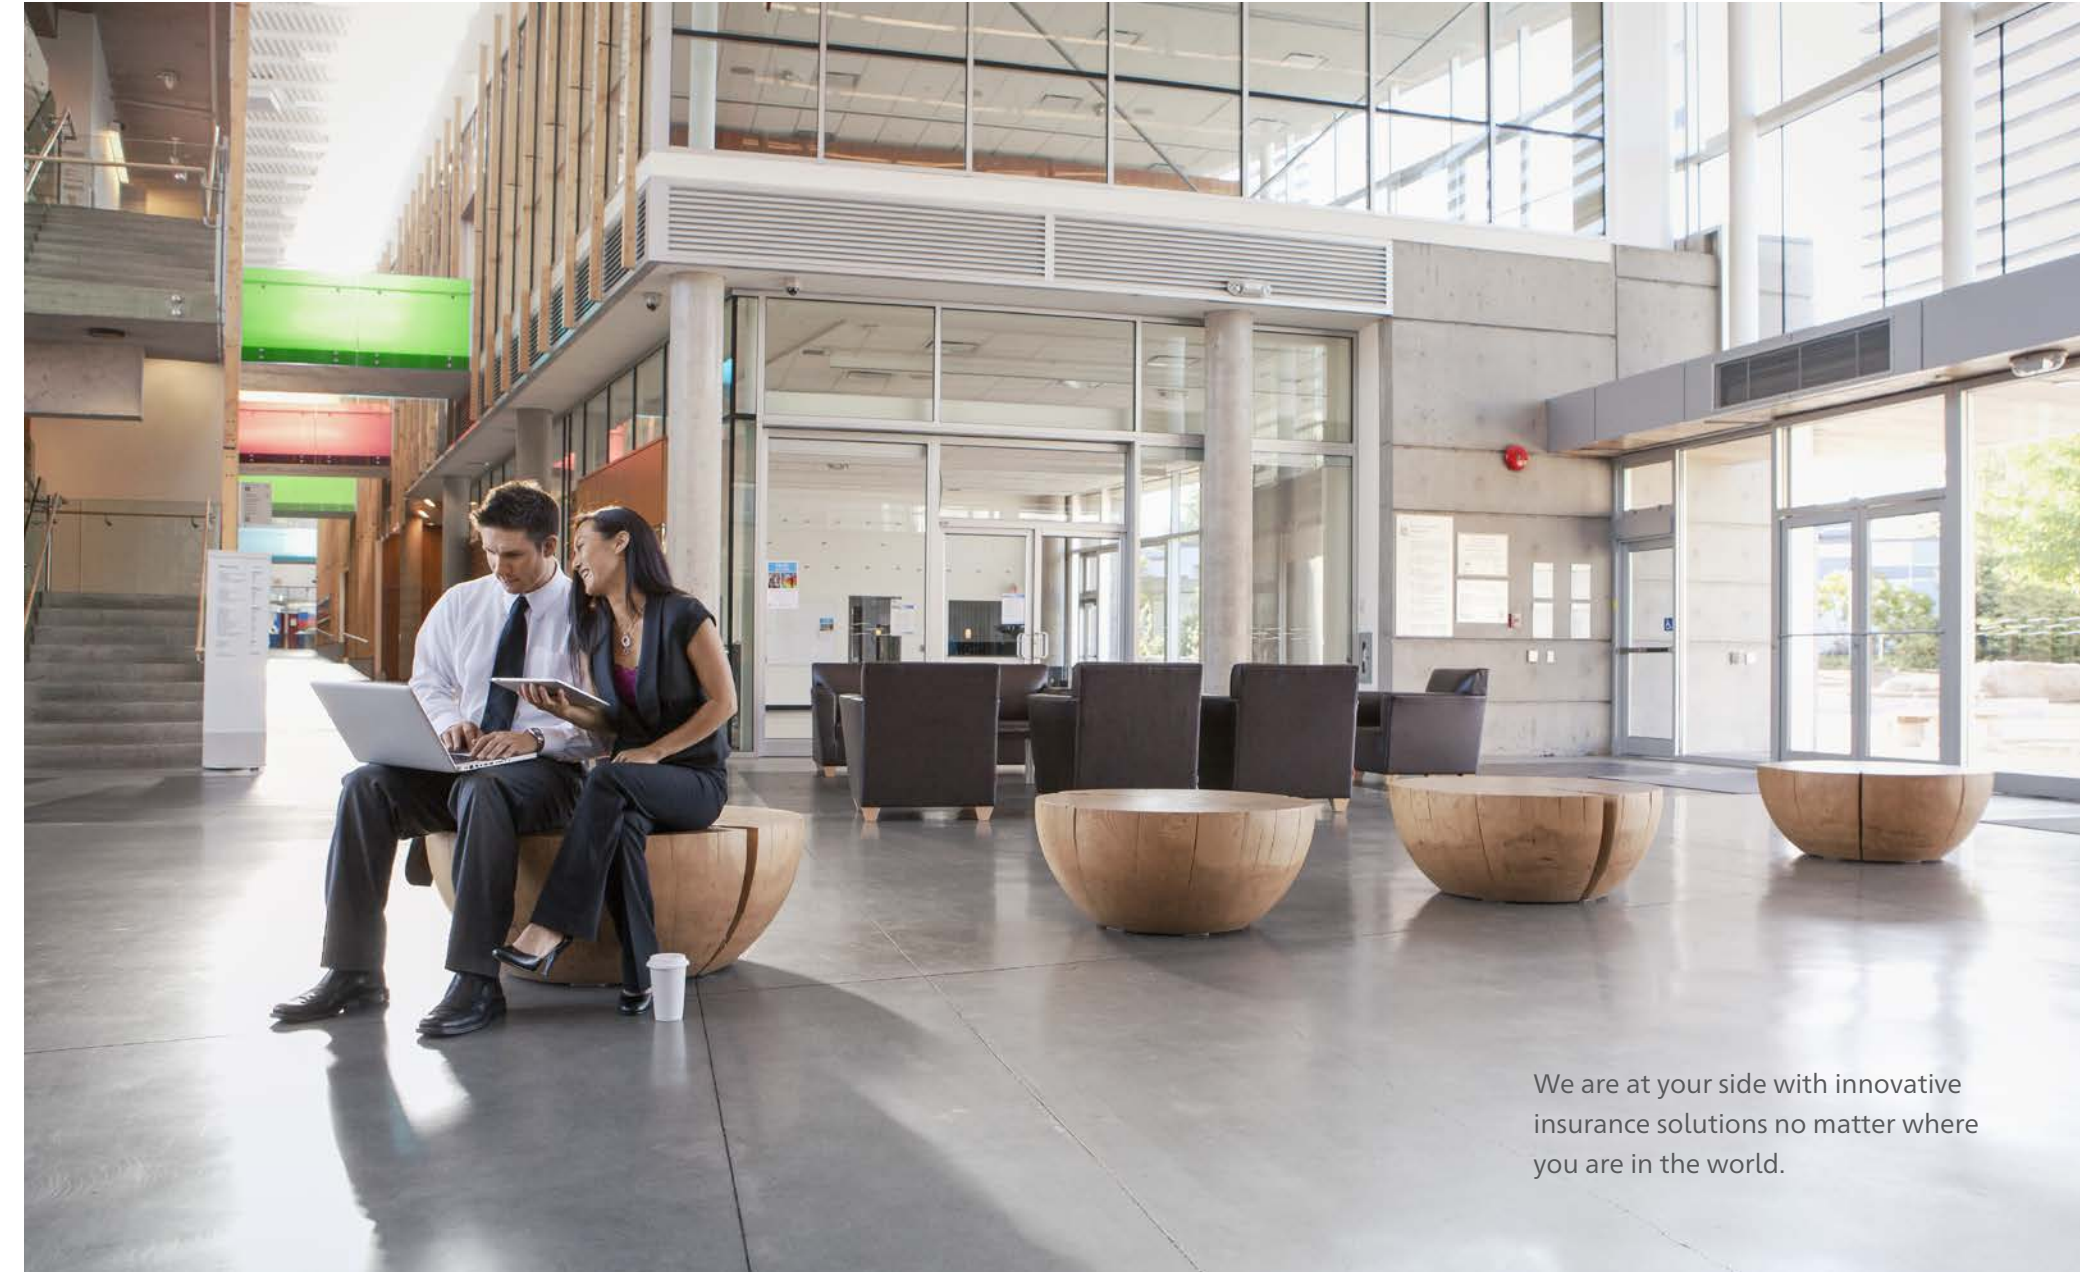

Innovative Solutions

HDI Global SE offers you a comprehensive product range to insure you against business risks – from global coverage in the form of multinational insurance programmes to innovative insurance for emerging technologies and evolving business risks.

Over 120 Years of Continuity

Since its founding in 1903, HDI has developed from a purely German industry liability insurer to the international insurance company HDI Global SE. Today we are well positioned for the future as a European publicly limited company.

We are at your side with innovative insurance solutions no matter where you are in the world.

Cargo hub, Ethiopia
After three years in construction, Africa's biggest air freight terminal in Addis Abeba hit the ground running. At its heart: a logistics system provided by the automation specialists Unitechnik. The project called on trusted partner HDI Global for the fulfilment of the insurance compliance requirements.

Hochmoselbrücke, Germany

HDI Global supported and insured one of the largest bridge construction projects in Europe: the Hochmoselbrücke road bridge. After eight years in construction, this mammoth project was completed – entirely damage-free. The impressive structure elegantly combines the traditional with the modern.

Twin tunnel railway, New Zealand

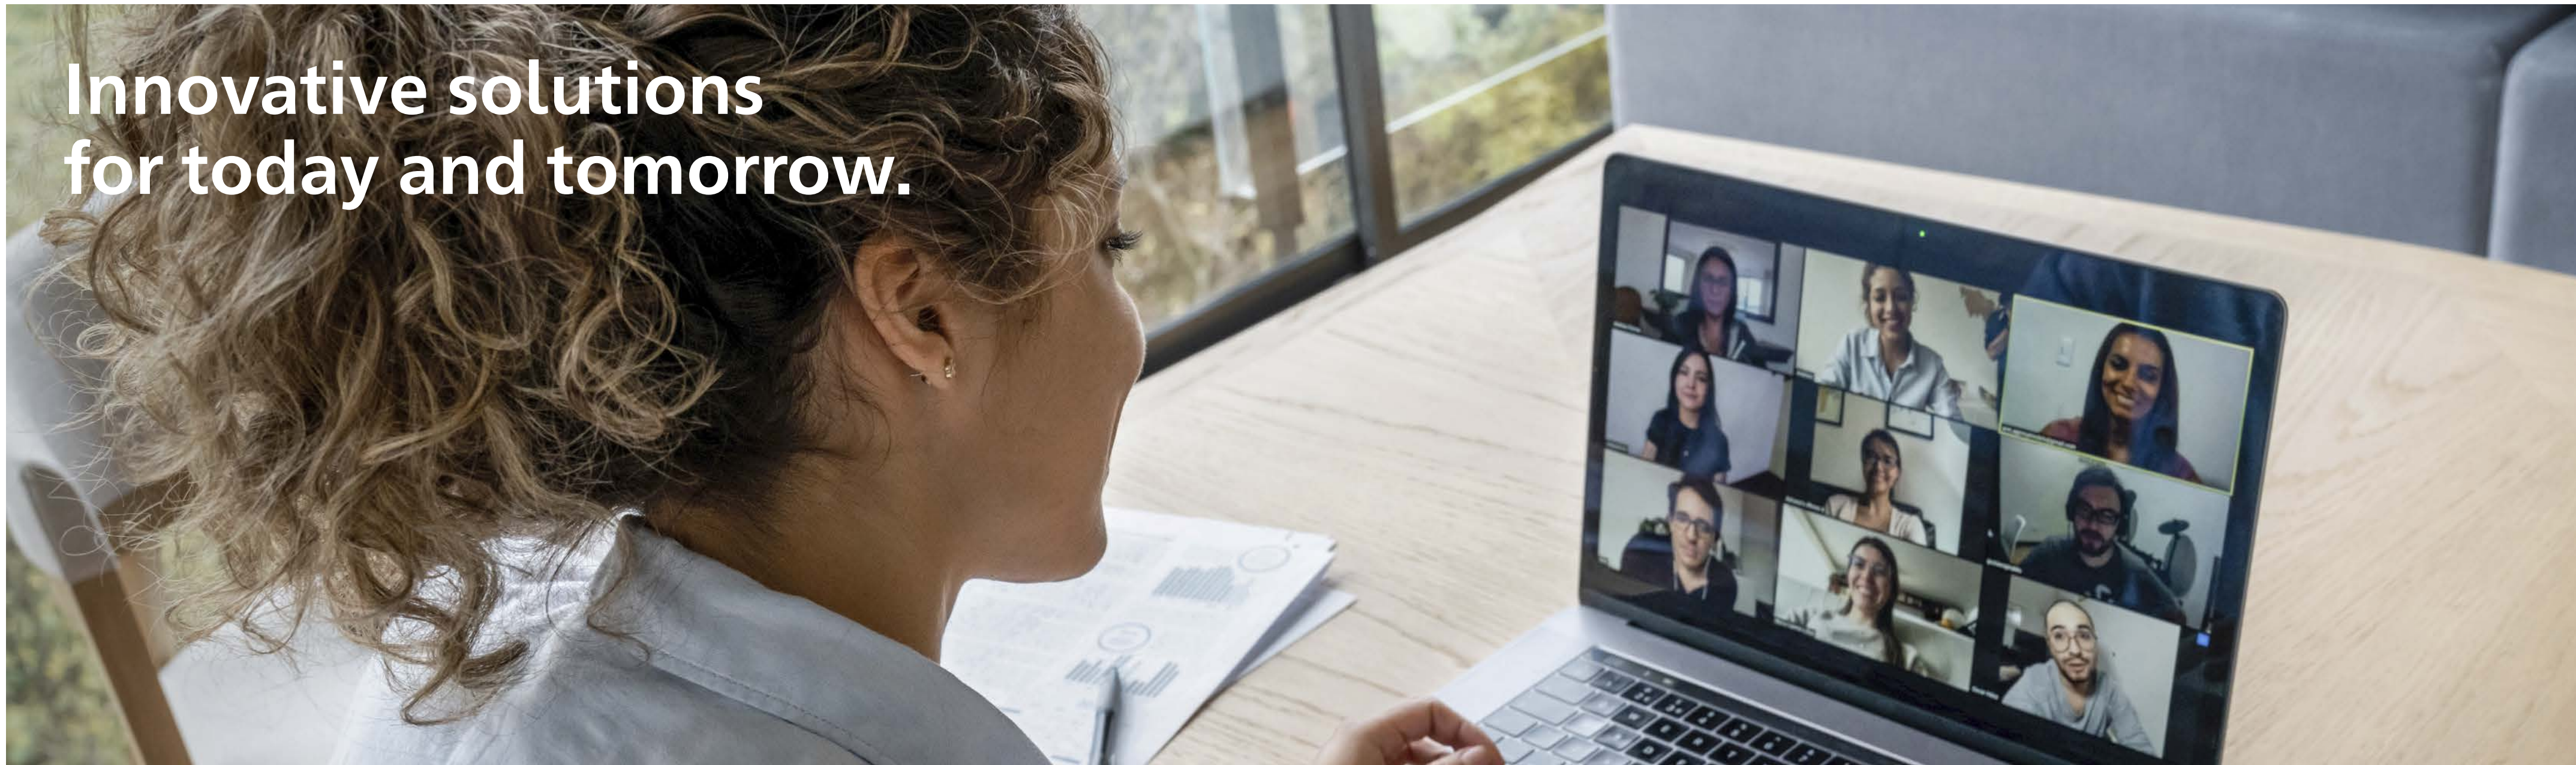

To assist with this complex infrastructure project constructing twin tunnels in New Zealand's largest city of Auckland, our client utilised HDI Global's risk consulting expertise, as the leading insurance partner, with open and timely communication with all project stakeholders.

Grand Tower Frankfurt, Germany

180 metres. 51 stories. 418 apartments. The Grand Tower in Frankfurt is Germany's highest residential building to date. HDI supported and insured the project during its four-year construction period – which was completed on time thanks to the strong cooperation between all involved parties.

would like to introduce themselves to you personally

HDI is an exciting place to work.

What has been the biggest challenge during your employment at HDI?

The biggest challenge is navigating the changing risk landscape which includes but no limited to the major weather events. We are having to identify this risk as early as possible and how we respond to them and help our clients respond. With the pace of change these risks evolve constantly. While this is a challenge it is also an opportunity.

What do you think makes working at HDI special?

From my short time here, I think it is the direction the company is taking. While remaining true to its history as an industrial insurer the company has taken bold steps forward to become truly more international. The company is driven by purpose which is supported by values that will make us a place people want to work at and a company clients want to partner with. It is an exciting place to work.

How do you balance your everyday working life?

You need to focus on the things that really matter. There are going to be times where your professional life requires more time and effort but those should not be usual. The rhythm of your life goes in peaks and troughs, and it is how you prioritize what matter most that helps get that balance. Not everything is equally important.

Who would you like to have dinner with one day?

That is a good question, unfortunately the people I would want to have dinner with are no longer with us. For me it is people like Nelson Mandela, Martin Luther King Jnr, or Mother Theresa. I suppose because I am South African, I would love to have dinner with Nelson Mandela. To ask him questions about forgiveness, grace and surviving 27 years in jail and to come out and lead a country though a volatile period for South Africa.

What wish do you have that you would still like to fulfil?

I do not really wish for things; I hope for things. My hope is to leave the world a better place than I found it in my sphere of influence and to have many shared experiences with my family.

What matters have been on your mind lately?

The matters that are forefront of my mind is the sustainability of the insurance industry as it relates to talent. Many of my conversations with peers in the industry tend to end up at topic of skills shortage. This is a concern for me given the growth in the industry and given the changes in the industry that require new skills. What I grapple with often is how we can address this challenge to ensure the sustainability of the insurance industry.

Shaun Scandling, Managing Director of HDI Global SE South Africa since May 2020, is committed to a sustainable world for generations to come.
